1. Purpose and scope

This document records the parties' privacy and information-handling commitments for the stated services. It applies only to synthetic business information and does not describe any actual customer, employee, or regulated dataset.

2. Processing instructions

Cinder Bay Processing Ltd. may process documented service data only on Aster Legal's written instructions, solely to provide the described services, and only through personnel bound by confidentiality obligations.

3. Security and incident notice

The service provider will maintain proportionate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards. It will notify the privacy contact without undue delay after confirming an incident involving service data and will provide reasonable cooperation for containment and notice assessment.

4. Transfers and subprocessors

Any cross-border transfer must use the approved transfer mechanism in the applicable exhibit. A material subprocessor change requires advance notice under the Subprocessor Notification Protocol and an opportunity to raise a documented, reasonable objection.

5. Return, deletion, and audit

At termination or written request, service data will be returned or securely deleted unless retention is required by a stated legal obligation. Aster Legal may verify compliance through documentation review and the limited audit process in the applicable exhibit.

Execution and exhibits

The Parties acknowledge that this document is a complete synthetic training artifact. No real client matter, person, account, credential, or privileged record is included.

Exhibit A - Operational controls

Controls include role-based access, quarterly access review, encrypted transmission, documented deletion, and evidence retention sufficient to support the compliance review. The preservation population is fixed at 42 synthetic items; the stated exception review date is 2026-07-12.
